Kern County Partners with Stanford University to Develop Regional Entrepreneurship Dashboard

Kern County has been selected to partner with Stanford University to participate in the Evidence for Policy Fellowship program to develop Kern County's entrepreneurship dashboard initiative.

This one-year program will support Kern County's economic development team in having access to Stanford's technology, training programs, data collection methodologies, and mentorship, to bolster the professional development and policy goals of Kern County to ensure our region becomes the best place in the State of California to start and grow a business.
